

ETHNOCENTRISM IN BETAWI PEOPLE

Intagliharsanti, Yudha Auria

Gunadarma University

From the beginning of story, most of Betawi people are slaves and workers. It is a very hard things for betawi people to modernize. Economically they are poor, and have no political representatives. The fact is betawi people is not the majority in Jakarta. There are some ethnic people lives in Jakarta, such as Javanese (35,16%), Betawi (27,65%), Sundanese (15, 7%), Chinese (5,53%), Batak (3,61%), Minangkabau (3,18%), Malay (1,62%), Bugese (0,59%), Madura (0,57%), Bantenese (0,25%), Banjar (0,10%), and other (6,48%). This led to anxiety on them. So they build an attitude among them to unlike the newcomers and hate them so they can prevent their goals, their life in betawi land. This ethnocentrism behavior are interesting to learn because from previous research this behavior are correlate with education. The aim of this research is to determine the differences of ethnocentrism among betawi adults with high education and low education. This research are held in Kampung Makasar, Jakarta Timur and takes 60 people lives there. From independent sample test we get the result that there is a significant differences of ethnocentrism between betawi people with high education and low education ($F= 0,000$ ($p < 0,01$)).

Key words: ethnocentrism, betawi people